The Importance Of History These Stones Mean Something

Joshua 4:5-7 And Joshua said unto them, Pass over before the ark of the Lord your God into the midst of Jordan, and take ye up every man of you a stone upon his shoulder, according unto the number of the tribes of the children of Israel: 6 That this may be a sign among you, that when your children ask their fathers in time to come, saying, What mean ye by these stones? 7 Then ye shall answer them, That the waters of Jordan were cut off before the ark of the covenant of the Lord; when it passed over Jordan, the waters of Jordan were cut off: and these stones shall be for a memorial unto the children of Israel for ever.

I recently found an article that was written from an interview with an old friend of mine that gave the history of the area I grew up in. If you had given me that article when I actually lived in those places, I probably wouldn't have given it a second look, but now that I am 62 years old, I began to read with enthusiasm this historical account and recollections of where I spent my younger days. It was history—my history.

Have you ever thought about the importance of history? You know, those boring classes you sat through in high school? Or perhaps those long stories our elders would tell around the campfire, or maybe a dinner table? History is important! History needs to be preserved! History tells us where we've been, what happened, and something to compare with how we have improved over the years.

So why are people today trying to destroy and erase our American history? For like it or not, agree with it or not, it is what has molded us as a nation into what we are today—good or bad.

History gives us a glimpse into a past that most of us don't remember, because we were not living in those times. History gives us a peek into what it was like in a different time, letting us get into the thoughts and processes of different people. Without history we would have a gaping hole in understanding who we really are.

Bible history is very important to us as believers in Christ. When we study the Old Testament, we see a history of God's people, their triumphs, their failures, and their struggles. We see the good, the bad, and the ugly. Like it or not, agree with it or not, it is still history—our history.

Biblical history must be preserved. God's Word gave commandments to the people to keep these monuments of history, because another generation would come by those monuments and ask what they mean. History was to be preserved for future generations.

What do you think future generations will remember about 2020 history? Will future generations try to rewrite what really happened to suit their narrative of the day?

What do you think future generations will know about Christianity?

Maybe we need to take a page out of Walter Cronkite's life as he used to say in signing off the air, "And that's the way it is". If you don't know who Walter is—search history.
